SPECIAL NOTICES.

Shop, 514 Eleventh LADIES' HIGH-CLASS TAILORING. "Reen" likes to serve the Ladies in the their way—and it is really too bad that other tailors won't arree with him in this method—but he consoles himself with the thought that after all there is "more Ladies than tailors."

The Ladies like the way "Reen" serves them. "Reen" lits more well-dressed Ledies in a day than other tailors fit in a week, some of his patrons think he doesn't charge enough for his work—dit is only a little more than some dressmakers ask, but Keen makes clothes for so very many that he reckons his profit on the principle that "many small beans will fill the bag just as quick as a few large ones." Has Keen ever served you? Let him.

Well, weil! We have run across a wide awake business man whose sole objection to the phonograph was "that he had to talk to it right alone without stopping to think or breathe." How foolish! The phonograph will stop when ever you wish it. That man now has a phonograph. Cash or on easy terms.

WILL TAKE A GREAT DEAL OF ARGUMENT. WILL TAKE A GREAT DEAL OF ARGUMENT.

It is believed that it will take a great deal of to see the end of the plot. No man is strong argument and influence to induce Mr. Cleveenough to face the rising tide and pilot republand to call an extra session, but there are those

The indications are that the southern and western men will, as a rule, insist that there should be an extra session and that the cutting should begin at once.

To assemble in March.

One proposition which will be strongly urged upon Mr. Cleveland, probably the best that has been suggested, is that the House be called to assemble in March, before the adjournment of the special session of the Senate, which will assemble right after the inauguration of Cleveland, and that nothing shall be attempted at this extra session except the organization of the House and appointment of committees, after which they shall adjourn, leaving the committees to go on with their investigations and the preparation of bills during the spring, summer and fall.

The principal work of Congress is done in the continuous added to his friends ashore. Another disapprointment was thus added to those which Mr. Cleveland has already experienced during the few days that he has spent as the guest of the Broadwater Club. The Quarantine Against New York was that the quarantine against New York was trued the suggestion of bills during the spring, summer and for them to get bills ready after they have been in committees having work to do should not be at it during the long recess, except that unless there is a special session called for organization the committees will not be formed for work. With the committees once formed there is no more necessity for Congress to be in session for many months. It is always the case that after Congress assembled that the quarantine against New York was received against New York was read of them to get bills ready after they have been organized.
